Managed Investment Advisory Agreement

This Agreement governs the investment management services provided by Wealth Watch Advisors, Inc. (“WWA”) and the Investment Advisory Representative of Wealth Watch Advisors (“Advisor”) to the Client(s) identified and signing below (“Client”) with respect to the brokerage and/or custodial account(s) identified on the signature page of this Agreement (your “Account”).

1. Risk Assessment & Investment Recommendation Disclosure

When the Advisor begins a working relationship with the Client, they will discuss the Client’s individual financial circumstances, current investments, goals, objectives, and time horizon. The Advisor will ask the Client to complete a Client Profile Questionnaire, as well as a Risk Assessment Questionnaire within an approved compliance software. The Client Profile will help the Advisor to gather information regarding the Client’s current investments, income, tax levels, net worth, and the like. The Risk Assessment Questionnaire will help the Advisor to calculate a suitable risk category for the Client through a series of behavioral questions and weighted answers. The results of both Questionnaires will help guide the Advisor to a suitable investment strategy specific to the Client’s financial situation.

The Advisor will prepare for the Client’s written approval a document titled (“Risk Assessment & Investment Recommendation Disclosure”) that demonstrates the calculated risk category results of the Risk Assessment Questionnaire and acknowledges various disclosures. The Client may impose reasonable restrictions on the management of the account, including the designation of particular securities or types of securities that should not be held in the account. Any limitations or restrictions applicable to investments or the Advisor’s services must be communicated to the Advisor by the Client. The Advisor may amend the Client’s current investment allocation from time to time with the Client’s signature approval on the Model Allocation and Risk Disclosure Statement.

As time passes, the Client must promptly tell the Advisor of any material changes to their financial circumstances so that the Advisor and Client may discuss whether the Client’s investment strategy is still suitable. The Advisor will rely upon information provided by the Client without any additional verification.

2. Investment Risks and Rewards

All investments have various degrees of risk that are affected by events and circumstances beyond the Advisor’s control. The investment management decisions the Advisor will make for the Client’s account are subject to market, currency, economic, political and business risks. Many of these risks are described in Section 8, Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies, and Risk of Loss, in the Advisor’s firm brochure (Form ADV, Part 2A), previously delivered to the Client. Typically, investments that offer the potential for greater returns also pose greater risks. The potential for high investment returns may entail the potential for significant risks of loss. The Client’s risk tolerance will help to guide the Investment Advisor Representative (IAR) in advising the Client and managing the Client’s account. There can be no assurance that the Advisor’s investment management decisions will result in achieving the Client’s identified investment goals and objectives. The Advisor cannot promise or guarantee the future performance of the Client’s account, potential financial gains, or the avoidance of financial losses. Depending on the investments selected, the Client’s account could suffer significant losses including loss of principal. The Advisor allows Client access to an investment which is aggressive in its design. Some investment models are designed to offer high returns but contain a high degree of risk. Investments within these models may contain or utilize leverage which involves a high degree of risk. The use of leverage within any model or investment has the potential to magnify both financial gains and losses and will increase the volatility of the model. Investors should not put money into this type of model unless they can afford to lose the entire investment amount.

The language in Section 2 contains all representations made by WWA concerning any investments offered by and through WWA, and no person shall make different or broader statements than those contained herein. Investors are cautioned not to rely upon any information not expressly outlined in this Agreement and are encouraged to carefully review the appropriate model's fact sheet. The Advisor does not guarantee the future performance of the assets being managed with the Advisor or any specific level of performance, the success of any investment decision or strategy that Advisor may use, or the success of the Advisor's overall management of the assets.

3. Appointment; Limited Power of Attorney; Discretionary Authority

Client grants Advisor limited discretionary authority to manage the Client's account through the purchase, sale, exchange, redemption, conversion, or other disposition of investments, income, or proceeds deposited and held in the account. Advisor also has discretion to select the account's custodian. Advisor may take all of these actions on the Client's behalf without the Client's prior knowledge, consent, or approval, subject to any limitations provided by the Client in writing. All transactions in the account to this discretionary authority shall be solely for the benefit and risk of Client. In order to evidence the Advisor's limited discretionary authority, Advisor may provide third parties with a copy of this Agreement. If required by a qualified custodian or other third-party service provider for the account, as identified below, Client agrees to provide Advisor with a limited power of attorney to evidence Advisor's discretionary authority over the account. Such third-party agreements and limited powers of attorney will remain subject to the limitations under this Agreement. All assets under Advisor's management shall be held or distributed in Client's name or as Client otherwise directs Advisor in writing. Except for authorized management fee withdrawals, Advisor shall not have custody or possession of Client's funds, cash, checks, securities, or other property. Investment management is the only service to be provided under this Agreement.

4. SubAdvisory Services

Client authorizes Advisor to engage a SubAdvisor(s), to manage the account in accordance with the Client's Investment Model Allocation and Risk Disclosure Statement pursuant to the limited discretionary authority Client has granted the Advisor under Section 3.

- a. Advisor will separately provide Client with information about the SubAdvisor and its services, model portfolios, and investment strategies, including the SubAdvisor's firm brochure (Form ADV, Part 2A), which contains important information the Client should carefully read.
- b. The SubAdvisor has developed proprietary model investment portfolios (the "Model Portfolios"). The SubAdvisor will exercise the discretionary management authority the Client has granted the Advisor pursuant to the Agreement in performing these services using one or more Model Portfolios.

c. The SubAdvisor's fees are disclosed in the Attachment A—Fee Schedule. Client authorizes the Advisor to calculate and withdraw the SubAdvisor's fee and Advisor's fee as described in Section 7 of this Agreement.

d. Advisor is not affiliated with the SubAdvisor. Advisor is not responsible for the SubAdvisor's services. The SubAdvisor is not responsible for Advisors services or for the services provided by the custodian. The SubAdvisor's liability shall also be limited as provided in Section 15 of this Agreement. The SubAdvisor is a third-party beneficiary of the authority, rights, and limitations described in this Agreement as are applicable to the Advisor, including without limitation the binding arbitration provisions in Section 28.

5. Model Portfolios

The Client's account will be managed based on the Model Portfolio(s) agreed upon between the Advisor and the Client. The language and disclosures within the WWA Risk Assessment Disclosure and corresponding results from the Client's Risk Assessment will be used as a guide to help determine suitable Model Portfolio investments for the Client. Investment strategies are not required to match the Client's risk category exactly and can be adjusted based on the Advisor and Client's understanding of available options and understanding of risk. The Model Portfolios identify securities of various types, characteristics representing various asset classes, including, but not limited to, debt and equity securities, exchange-traded funds, exchange-traded notes, mutual funds, and structured securities products. The Model Portfolios are designed to address broadly defined investment goals, objectives, risk tolerance, and other factors for Clients having generally similar circumstances. A Model Portfolio may be customized to more closely address the Client's specific circumstances or to reflect similar investments the Client already holds. It may be necessary to liquidate some of the Client's current investments to align the Client's holdings with the Model Portfolio(s). The composition of the Model Portfolios may be changed from time to time.

Changes in the Model Portfolios will typically result in changes to the investments held in the Client's account. Generally, these changes will occur without consideration of the Client's specific investments or the period of time the Client may have held them or the resulting tax consequences for taxable accounts. For taxable accounts, any sale of the Client's investments may result in a taxable gain or loss reportable on the Client's income tax return.

6. Reports

Upon written notification by the Client to the Advisor, the Advisor shall provide the Client with periodic written investment reports showing the assets and market values for each security included in an investment model. Client understands that the same reports can be accessed by the Client by accessing the custodian's websites.

7. Custody Services

The Advisor does not provide custody services and the Advisor will not have possession or custody of the Client's cash, checks, securities, or other property.

- a. Custodian Selection. The Client has directed the Advisor to use the custodian designated on the signature page (the “custodian”) to hold the Client’s account. The Client reasonably believes the custodian meets the requirements of a “qualified custodian” in SEC Rule 206(4)–2, Custody of Funds or Securities of Clients by Investment Advisors. The Client authorizes the Advisor to enter into one or more custodial agreements with the custodian and the Client agrees to be bound by its terms and conditions. The custodial agreement will govern the custodial-related aspects of the Client’s account. The Client agrees and understands that any account held outside of the Custodial account, except for CIM investments, is at the full risk of the client. Furthermore, the client releases the Advisor for any losses in an outside account and is fully responsible for the risk.
- b. Client’s account. The Advisor will only manage those assets held in the Client’s account pursuant to the terms of this Agreement. All transactions in the Client’s account are solely for the Client’s benefit and risk. The Client may make deposits to the account at any time, unless prohibited by law. The Client may withdraw or transfer cash or securities from the account at any time, but the Advisor does ask that the Client provide the Advisor with prior notice so that the Advisor may plan accordingly. The Advisor is not responsible for transfers or withdrawals the Client may make from the account or any investment directions, limitations, or restrictions that the Client may give the Advisor.
- c. Account Transactions. The Client authorizes the Advisor to give instructions to the custodian to manage the Client’s account. The Client authorizes the custodian to follow those instructions to effect transactions, deliver securities, make transfers and payments, deduct fees and charges, and take other actions with respect to the Client’s account. Any withdrawals, transfers, or other distributions the Advisor may direct from the Client’s account may only be made in the Client’s name and sent to the Client’s latest known address, or to another account titled in the Client’s name, except:
 - (i) the settlement of transactions for the Client’s account;
 - (ii) the payment of the Advisor’s fees;
 - (iii) the payment of fees and charges by the custodian; and
 - (iv) as the Client may direct the Advisor in writing. The Client is not responsible for the custodian’s errors, actions, or omissions but, without assuming any obligation, the Advisor will help the Client to resolve them.
- c. Account Statements. The custodian will provide access for the Client to download or review periodic account statements, at least quarterly, indicating all amounts withdrawn or disbursed from the Client account, including the Advisor’s fees, and all transactions occurring in the Client’s account during the period covered by the statement. Typically, those statements will also include a summary of the Client’s investment positions and their values at the end of the reporting period. The Advisor will rely upon these account statements. The Client must promptly review these statements and immediately notify the Advisor if the Client has any concerns or believe any action or omission for the Client's account was in error or was contrary to the Client's Investment Model Allocation and Risk Disclosure Statement or any other instructions the Client may have given. Contact the Advisor immediately if the Client does not receive an account statement from the custodian. The custodian will send or make available to the Advisor copies of the Client's account statements.

8. Fees and Expenses

a. Fee Schedule and Calculation. The Client will pay or cause to be paid to the Advisor the fees set forth on Attachment A—Fee Schedule of this Agreement. The Advisor may modify the fees from time to time if the overall fee rate is within the parameters of what the Client agreed to in writing in Attachment A. The Advisor may terminate this Agreement if the Client does not accept the change to the fees. The fees described in this paragraph and the Attachment A—Fee Schedule of this Agreement shall constitute the entire compensation to which the Advisor will be entitled for the services provided under this Agreement. The Advisor will not be compensated on the basis of a share of the Client's capital gains or a share of the capital appreciation of the investments held in the Client's account.

b. Fee Payment Frequency and Basis. The fees will be calculated, accrued, and due monthly in advance. The fees are based on the average daily balance of the Client's account as reported by the custodian. All assets within the Client's account are billed at the same overall rate and included in the management fee calculation, including managed assets invested in third-party models, cash balances and investments in money market funds, demand deposit accounts, certificates of deposit, structured notes, in-kind holdings blocked from trading, and the like.

c. Fee Payment Method. The Client hereby authorizes the fees to be directly deducted and paid by the custodian from the Client's account. If necessary, the Client authorizes the Advisor to liquidate investments in the Client's account in order to pay the fees. The Client may terminate this fee deduction authorization at any time by giving the Advisor or the custodian written notice. The amount of fees deducted will be shown on the custodian's periodic account statements. Typically, the custodian will not verify the fee calculation. The Client should verify the fee calculation.

d. Expenses. In addition to the fees, the Client is also responsible for the fees and expenses charged by the custodian, any third-party Broker-Dealer used by the custodian, and any other third-party product or service provider. The value of investments in mutual funds, public or private investment companies, or insurance products, will be included in calculating the fees. Typically, these investment products charge and deduct from the fund or an insurance company's separate account various management fees, share-holder servicing fees, fund expenses, and sometimes distribution fees that are borne by all of its investors. If the fund imposes sales charges, the Client may also pay an initial or deferred sales charge. These fees, expenses, and charges are disclosed in the prospectus, offering document, or contract pertaining to the investment, which are available upon the Client's request. Consequently, for these types of investments the Client is directly and indirectly paying two levels of Advisory fees and expenses, that is, the fees the Client pays to the Advisor and the Client pays fees and expenses charged by the mutual fund, insurance company, or other investment company to all of their investors. If the Client's investments are held inside of a variable annuity the Client will also incur and be responsible for any contract fees, mortality and expense fees, and other charges that the insuring insurance company may assess. These fees are detailed in the annuity prospectus and contract that Client received. Please note, that if Client is using a WWA offered model through a variable annuity that the insuring insurance company may assess an additional fee on that model. This fee will not be deducted from the contract in the same manner as Advisor's fees are deducted. These fees are assessed directly to the model within the contract. As a result, the performance of WWA models inside of a variable annuity will vary from the performance of WWA models held outside of a variable annuity.

9. Client Responsibilities

The Client agrees to provide information and/or documentation requested by Advisor in furtherance of this Agreement as pertains to Client's investment objective, needs and goals, and to keep further informed by any changes regarding same. The Client acknowledges that that Advisor cannot adequately perform its services for the Client unless the Client diligently performs his responsibilities under this Agreement.

Advisor shall not be required to verify any information obtained from the Client, Client's attorney, accountant or other professionals, and is expressly authorized to rely thereon. Client shall communicate to Advisor promptly, in writing, any material changes in such information. Client acknowledges and understands that the service to be provided by Advisor under this Agreement is limited to the management of the Assets and does not include financial planning or any other related or unrelated services.

10. Conflicts of Interest and Other Disclosures

Advisor is registered as an "investment Advisor" with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended ("Advisers Act"), and the Advisor is notice-filed in those states where this is required by state securities laws. The Advisor's firm brochure (Form ADV, Part 2A) discloses important information about the Advisor, services, conflicts of interest that may arise with respect to the Advisor's services, implementation of the Advisor's services, and business relationships that the Advisor or its representatives may have with other product or service providers. Ask the Advisor if there is anything in this information that the Client does not understand or is a concern to the Client.

11. Brokerage/Execution Services

a. The Advisor will arrange for the execution of securities brokerage transactions for the account through Broker-Dealers that Advisor reasonably believes will provide "best execution." In seeking best execution, the determinative factor is not the lowest possible commission cost but whether the transaction represents the best qualitative execution, taking into consideration the full range of a Broker-Dealer's services including the value of research provided, execution capability, and responsiveness. Accordingly, although Advisor will seek competitive ticket charges, it may not necessarily obtain the lowest possible ticket charges for account transactions. The account may pay to a Broker-Dealer a commission or ticket charge greater than another qualified Broker-Dealer might charge to affect the same transaction where Advisor determines in good faith that the commission is reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage services received.

b. Transactions for each Client account generally will be affected independently, unless Advisor decides to purchase or sell the same securities for several Clients at approximately the same time. Advisor may (but is not obligated to) combine or “batch” such orders to obtain best execution or to allocate equitably among Advisor’s Clients differences in prices and commissions or other transaction costs that might have been obtained had such orders been placed independently. Under this procedure, transactions will be averaged as to price and will be allocated among Advisor’s Clients in proportion to the purchase and sale orders placed for each Client account on any given day. To the extent that the Advisor determines to aggregate Client orders for the purchase or sale of securities, including securities in which Advisor’s principal(s) and/or associated person(s) may invest, the Advisor shall generally do so in accordance with the parameters set forth in SEC No-Action Letter, SMC Capital, Inc. The Advisor shall not receive any additional compensation or remuneration as a result of the aggregation.

c. The Advisor may execute cross trades on behalf of its Clients. A cross trade occurs when the Advisor affects a transaction between two Clients (e.g. having account A purchase securities directly from account B). In a cross-trade transaction, the Advisor receives no compensation other than its Advisory fee. However, there is a conflict of interest because the Advisor is acting as an Advisor for both the buyer and seller of the security. The Advisor mitigates this conflict of interest by acting as a fiduciary for both Clients. It also follows the following policy that it will not affect a cross trade for Clients unless it has determined that no Client will be disfavored by cross trading and the trade is affected at a price determined by an independent pricing mechanism and such pricing mechanism is documented as to each cross trade.

d. When trade errors occur, it is the Advisor’s policy to ensure that the error is immediately corrected without impacting the Client. Upon recognition of the error the Advisor moves the trade to its trade error account and the Client will be returned to his/her previous position. All trade error losses are returned to the Client. All trade error gains are kept in the trade error account for at least one year to offset future trade error losses. After one year or when dictated by the trade error account’s custodian, trade error gains may be donated to a charity. The definition of a trade error may be determined at the discretion of WWA and does not include any errors caused by a violation of the Trading and Transacting Best Practices mentioned below.

12. Directions to the Advisor

All directions by the Client to the Advisor (including notices, instructions, and directions relating to changes in the Client’s investment objectives) must be communicated in a written format. The Advisor shall be fully protected in relying upon any such direction, notice, or instruction until it has been duly advised in writing of changes therein.

13. Trading and Transacting Best Practices

All requests related to trades or transactions within both Managed and Non-Managed accounts at Charles Schwab are required to be submitted in writing through the Operations Team at WWA using the correct process. In other words: Clients, Advisors, and Advisor office staff members should not trade or transact within accounts directly at Charles Schwab over the phone or online. Trading or transacting includes liquidating assets, initiating one-time or scheduled distributions, withdrawals, or contributions, and submitting any buy or sell trade instructions. Similarly, instructions to exclude an asset from trading within a Managed account should be delivered in writing from the Client to their Advisor, and subsequently in writing from the Advisor to the Operations Team at WWA using the correct process. Advisors and Clients are required to discuss cost basis figures and make adjustments to trading instructions when deemed necessary prior to submitting trade instructions to WWA given that WWA is not assessing cost basis prior to executing trade instructions from Advisors. Failure to adhere to the required best practices may result in trade errors with potential negative costs to WWA depending on market conditions. WWA may not be obligated to correct trades, or to absorb the negative cost of trade errors related to a violation of trading and transacting best practices. Specifically, any negative cost to WWA as a result of a trade error caused by Client may be charged to the Client's Charles Schwab account at the discretion of WWA. Any negative cost to WWA as a result of a trade error caused by an Advisor may be deducted from the Advisor's monthly fee payment at the discretion of WWA.

14. Term and Termination

This Agreement will continue in effect until terminated by either party by written notice to the other (email notice will not suffice), which written notice must be signed by the terminating party. Termination of this Agreement will not affect (i) the validity of any action previously taken by Advisor under this Agreement; (ii) liabilities or obligations of the parties from transactions initiated before termination of this Agreement; or (iii) Client's obligation to pay the Advisor's fees (prorated through the date of termination). Upon the termination of this Agreement, Advisor will have no obligation to recommend or take any action with regard to the securities, cash or other investments in the account. The Client has a right to terminate (including for nonperformance) this Agreement without cost or penalty within five (5) calendar days after entering the Agreement. After the fifth day, the Client may terminate (including for nonperformance) this Agreement by giving the Advisor ten (10) days written notice. In this event, a pro-rata amount of the monthly fee shall be calculated, and any refund will be sent to the Client. The pro-rata amount will be based upon the account's value on the termination date and the number of days services were rendered during the termination month.

15. Confidentiality

Any information provided to the Advisor about the Client, the Client's family, or the Client's financial needs, objectives, or circumstances will be kept confidential except insofar as required by law and as described in the Advisor's privacy notice, as it may be amended from time to time. The Advisor may provide information regarding the Client and the Client's account to the SubAdvisor, the custodian, any mutual fund companies, and any insurance companies handling or holding investments for the Client's account. The Advisor may provide information to the Client's family members, the attorneys, accountants, or other professionals whom the Client may identify to the Advisor either with written consent or by providing executed POA documentation. The Advisor may also provide information to other persons as reasonably necessary in performing the Advisor's services as permitted by applicable law and described in the Advisor's current privacy notice. The Client agrees to treat confidentially the Advisor's investment advice and investment recommendations and decisions; no other person shall be entitled to rely upon them.

16. Proxy Voting

The Advisor does not vote on any proxy statements that are solicited with respect to an annual or special meeting of shareholders of securities held in the account. With the Client's written notice all proxy solicitation materials will be forwarded to Client for response and voting. Clients can contact their investment Advisor representative with any questions.

17. Limited Liability

Except as may otherwise be provided by law, the Advisor will not be liable to the Client for any loss (i) that the Client may suffer as a result of the Advisor's good faith decisions or actions where the Advisor has exercised the degree of care, skill, prudence and diligence that a prudent person acting in a fiduciary capacity would use; (ii) caused by following the Client's investment decisions or instructions; or (iii) caused by the SubAdvisor, the custodian or any other third-party providing services to the Client or for the Client's account; or (iv) caused by any investment that is outside of the investment models actively managed by Wealth Watch and their third party affiliates, or outside of any pre-approved investment product. Federal and state securities laws may impose liabilities under certain circumstances on persons who act in good faith, and by entering this Agreement the Client is not waiving or limiting his or her rights under those laws.

18. Applicable Law

This Agreement supersedes and replaces, in its entirety, all previous investment Advisory agreement(s) between the parties. To the extent not inconsistent with applicable law, this Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of Colorado. In addition, to the extent not inconsistent with applicable law, the venue (i.e. location) for the resolution of any dispute or controversy between Advisor and Client shall be within the State of Colorado.

19. Severability

Any term or provision of this Agreement which is invalid or unenforceable in any jurisdiction shall, as to such jurisdiction, be ineffective to the extent of such invalidity or unenforceability without rendering invalid or unenforceable the remaining terms or provisions of this Agreement or affecting the validity or enforceability of any of the terms or provisions of this Agreement in any other jurisdiction.

20. Client's Acknowledgement and Authority

Client acknowledges that he/she/they/it has (have) all requisite legal authority to execute this Agreement, and that there is no encumbrances on the Assets. The person named as Client representative is duly authorized to act on Client's behalf with respect to the account. Advisor shall be permitted to rely, without independent verification, upon the directions and instructions of the person or any other representative with apparent authority to act on Client's behalf. The Client correspondingly agrees to immediately notify the Advisor, in writing, in the event that either of these representations should change.

21. Client Conflicts

If this Agreement is between the Advisor and related Clients (i.e. husband and wife, life partners, etc.), Advisor's services shall be based upon the joint goals communicated to the Advisor. Advisor shall be permitted to rely upon instructions from either party with respect to disposition of the Assets, unless and until such reliance is revoked in writing to the Advisor. The Advisor shall not be responsible for any claims or damages resulting from such reliance or from any change in the status of the relationship between the Clients.

22. Non-Exclusive Management

Advisor, its officers, employees, and agents, may have or take the same or similar positions in specific investments for their own accounts, or for the accounts of other Clients, as the Advisor does for the account. Client expressly acknowledges and understands that Advisor shall be free to render investment advice to others and that Advisor does not make its investment management services available exclusively to Client. Nothing in this Agreement shall impose upon the Advisor any obligation to purchase or sell, or to recommend for purchase or sale, for the account any security which the Advisor, its principals, affiliates or employees, may purchase or sell for their own accounts or for the account of any other Client, if in the reasonable opinion of the Advisor such investment would be unsuitable for the account or if the Advisor determines in the best interest of the account it would be impractical or undesirable.

23. Death and Incapacity

The Client's death or adjudication as legally incapacitated will not terminate or change the terms of this Agreement or have any effect until the Advisor receives actual notice. However, the Client's personal representative, guardian, attorney in fact, or other authorized representative may terminate this agreement by giving the Advisor written notice. The Client's acknowledges that the custodian may not permit any further account transactions until such time as appropriate documentary authority is provided to the custodian.

24. Custodian Retail Account Conversions

WWA Client accounts held at Charles Schwab may be converted from Schwab Institutional to Schwab Retail at the discretion of WWA. A retail account conversion removes WWA authorization and management services from the Client account, including trading discretion, billing permission, and online visibility. Circumstances prompting a retail account conversion may include but are not limited to: the failure of a Client to respond to their Advisor, to complete necessary WWA contractual paperwork, to comply with compliance requirements, to adhere to the trading and transacting best practices, etc. An account may also be converted to retail if the assigned Advisor is no longer associated with WWA. After a retail conversion, Clients may receive a written notice from WWA, and will receive a written notice from Schwab Retail directly to their address of record. Charles Schwab remains the underlying custodian, and Clients retain their account ownership and online access throughout the transition.

25. Entire Agreement

This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement between Client and Advisor with respect to the account. Advisor may amend this Agreement by providing Client with 30 days' prior written notice. Client is free to terminate this Agreement, as provided above, if the change is not acceptable. In the event that any provision of this Agreement is declared to be invalid, such declaration shall not be deemed to affect the validity of any of the other provisions of this Agreement. This Agreement shall be governed and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of Colorado without regard for conflict of laws principles.

26. Notices

All required notices shall be in writing and directed to the addresses indicated above, or to such other address as may be designated for this purpose by Client or Advisor from time to time. Notice shall be deemed delivered and effective after five days if sent to the last designated address by ordinary United States mail.

27. Assignment

No “assignment” (as that term is construed under the Federal Advisers Act or similar state statutes or rules) of this Agreement may be made by Advisor without Client’s consent. The Client’s consent may be given orally, in writing, or by implied consent permitted under applicable laws, rules, and interpretations. Client’s consent to an assignment may be conclusively presumed if Advisor provides Client with written notice describing the proposed assignment with an opportunity and method to terminate this Agreement not less than 30 days prior to the event and, thereafter, Client continues Advisor’s services under this Agreement without oral or written objection or contract termination. Any corporate reorganization or change in ownership of Advisor that does not result in a change of control of Advisor is not an “assignment” for this purpose.

28. Electronic Delivery of Documents

Client may elect to receive electronic delivery of all documents from Advisor in the signature block below; if Client makes this election, then Client will generally not receive a paper copy. Client can withdraw this consent at any time at no cost by sending Advisor written notice. Allow Advisor ten business days to implement this change. Client’s consent to electronic delivery of documents will apply to all records and documents related to Client’s Designated account disclosures, newsletters, and other notices regarding Client’s Designated account and such other documents, as Client may make available from time to time. Client may request a paper copy of any document delivered electronically at no cost by calling Advisor. Please allow ten business days for processing the request. Requesting a paper copy will not affect Client’s participation in the electronic delivery of documents. In order to access documents electronically, Client will need a personal computer with internet access through an Internet Service Provider (ISP) and an email address. Client may download Adobe Reader at no cost on the Internet at <http://www.adobe.com>, but all other software, hardware and systems must be provided at Client’s cost. Client represents that his/her/its email address set forth on the signature page of this Agreement is a current, valid email address. In the event Client changes his/her/its email address, Client must notify Advisor immediately by contacting Advisor. If Advisor is repeatedly unable to deliver Client’s electronic document(s) to the specified email address, Advisor reserves the right to terminate the electronic delivery of documents service and deliver the documents to Client via U.S. mail.

29. Binding Arbitration

NOTE: If Client has signed a securities brokerage account agreement, Client will also be subject to binding arbitration with respect to claims involving that brokerage firm and its registered representatives under the terms of that agreement.

The parties waive their rights to seek remedies in court, including any right to a jury trial. If any dispute between or among any of the parties arising out of, relating to or in connection with this Agreement or the account cannot be settled through negotiation within 10 business days or such other period agreed to by the parties, the parties shall first try in good faith to settle the dispute by mediation administered by JAMS, the American Arbitration Association, FINRA, or another similar group as may be agreed to by the parties. The parties agree that any dispute that cannot be resolved through negotiation and mediation as described above within 30 days or such other period agreed to by the parties shall be resolved exclusively through binding arbitration conducted under the auspices of JAMS pursuant to its Arbitration Rules and Procedures. The arbitration hearing shall be held in the county and state of the principal office of Advisor at the time the dispute arises. Disputes shall not be resolved in any other forum or venue. The arbitration shall be conducted by a retired judge who is experienced in resolving disputes regarding the securities business. The parties agree that the arbitrator shall apply the substantive law of Colorado to all state law claims, that limited discovery shall be conducted in accordance with JAMS' Arbitration Rules and Procedures, and that the arbitrator may not award punitive or exemplary damages, unless (but only to the extent that) such damages are required by law to be an available remedy for any of the specific claims asserted. In accordance with JAMS' Arbitration Rules and Procedures, the arbitrator's award shall consist of a written statement as to the disposition of each claim and the relief, if any, awarded on each claim. The award shall not include or be accompanied by any findings of fact, conclusions of law or other written explanation of the reasons for the award. The parties understand that the right to appeal or to seek modification of any ruling or award by the arbitrator is severely limited under state and federal law. Any award rendered by the arbitrator shall be final and binding, and judgment may be entered on it in any court of competent jurisdiction in the county and state of the principal office of Advisor at the time the award is rendered or as otherwise provided by law. Over $2,000,000 billed at:	1.72%

Mutual funds and exchange traded funds also charge internal management fees, as disclosed in a fund’s prospectus, which are separate and distinct from the above fees. Additional fees and expenses may be incurred if Client uses Advisor’s services to manage assets within a variable annuity. These additional charges are described in the annuity’s prospectus and application. The above fees are separate and distinct from brokerage commissions, transaction fees, and other related costs and expenses.

After reviewing the anticipated trading costs associated with my model, and discussing it with my Investment Advisor Representative, I have selected the account type that is most appropriate for my situation.
